STAFF/STUDENT PERSONAL RELATIONSHIPS PROCEDURE

SCOPE
This procedure applies to all Monash University staff and any other person appointed by Monash to have direct dealings with Monash students. For the purpose of this procedure only, the collective reference to staff (‘you’) includes:

- continuing, fixed term and casuals
- those with primary responsibility for pastoral care services for students
- adjuncts
- honorary/joint appointments
- visitors

In this procedure, the Enterprise Agreement means the Monash University Enterprise Agreement (Academic & Professional Staff) 2019 or the Trades and Services staff (Building and Metal Trades staff) 2009 or Trades and Services staff (Catering and Retail, Cleaning and Caretaking, and Miscellaneous services staff) 2005 as applicable to you in accordance with your contract of employment. Links to relevant clauses are included in the definitions of this procedure.

PROCEDURE STATEMENT
This procedure explains Monash’s expectations and your obligations with respect to personal relationships with students (undergraduate or post-graduate including Higher Degree by Research).

Monash (‘us’, ‘our’ or ‘we’) recognises that your socialising on a friendship basis with students is part of being an active member of the University community, however the nature of the staff/student relationship imposes particular responsibilities and duties on you. Because of the inherent nature of staff/student roles, you are in a position of power relative to a student irrespective of the student’s age and maturity. You must ensure that you recognise this power differential and always act in a respectful and fair manner, and that you do not engage in sexual harassment, bullying, favouritism and exploitation.

The principles in the Monash University Ethics Statement require you to conduct yourself professionally and appropriately in your dealings with students. It states that we will “treat each other with honesty, fairness, mutual respect and be responsible in the exercise of power”. This procedure expands on this requirement.

1. Types of personal relationships
1.1 For the purpose of this procedure, we refer to two types of relationships. Collectively they are referred to as personal relationships but individually, they are defined as:

- Intimate personal relationships - an intimate personal relationship is a relationship which goes beyond the bounds of a platonic or working relationship, regardless of gender. For example, dating, romantic, sexual etc. which is consensual.
- Close personal relationships - a close personal relationship may involve a friendship, relative or cultural family relationship, or financial dependent.

2. Your obligations as staff of Monash
2.1 When dealing with students (in any capacity) you should recognise that you are in a position of trust, and that it is your professional and ethical responsibility to not misuse that trust.

2.2 You must not pursue an intimate personal relationship with a student whilst engaged in an academic manner with the student; we do not condone this behaviour.

2.3 You must ensure your interactions with students are always professional and appropriate. You must avoid conduct towards students that is unprofessional or inappropriate.
2.4 Academic staff are trusted to teach, guide and supervise students and therefore are in a position of trust and power relative to the student. We expect all academic staff to recognise and maintain professional boundaries, and the obligation to protect the interests of students, to avoid a power imbalance and to avoid perceived or actual conflicts of interest.

2.5 We will not tolerate coerced and exploitive relationships; these must not occur.

2.6 Where a staff/student intimate personal relationship exists or develops, it must be entered into fairly, mutually and not involve any misuse of power. Where such a relationship ends, all continuing contact as members of the University community must be respectful, appropriate and compliant with this procedure.

2.7 Although the University does not condone relationships between staff and students as detailed above, in the event that this does exist or occur, you must make a declaration of an intimate or close personal relationship which may give rise to any perceived, potential or actual conflict of interest. Once declared, a conflict of interest management plan is to be made, which must include no dealings between the participants on academic or other University matters. If you are unsure, please contact our Ethical Conduct Manager (ethical.conduct.queries@monash.edu) for further information.

2.8 Staff/student intimate personal relationships must at all times comply with all our policies and procedures but more specifically the Ethics Statement policy and the conflict of interest procedure.

Further guidance

2.9 By way of guidance, you should:

- maintain an appropriate physical and emotional distance from students and perform your University duties in the best interests of the University without favour towards any individual student over another student;
- only use your University email account, telephone and internet access for communications with students, avoiding unauthorised use of social media sites (such as Facebook or Twitter) and internet chat rooms;
- you should not share your personal contact details such as home address, private telephone number and email address;
- the same guidelines and rules should apply when you and the student are participating in fieldwork, conferences and other University activities away from your usual workplace.

2.10 Should you have a primary professional responsibility of the pastoral care of students, you should:

- where possible, ensure that meetings and discussions about University matters occur on campus or other University approved premises. Where not possible, ensure the meeting occurs in a public venue, such as a library or a café, where practicable;
- refer students with support needs to a relevant University support service and limit your role in providing personal support to a student where this is not part of your employment duties;
- refrain from contacting students after hours about University matters; and
- not seek intimate personal information from a student except as relevant to a University process (e.g. medical information for special consideration, or personal circumstances information as part of an academic progress process).

3. Inappropriate staff/student relationships/conduct

</tbody>
</table>
Example

Further guidance

3.2 By way of guidance, you should avoid the following:

- one-on-one meetings with a student about University matters at a private residence or secluded place;
- engaging in consensual conduct of a sexual nature with a student whom you are teaching, assessing or supervising;
- having a personal relationship with a student whom you are teaching, assessing or supervising;
- engaging in exploitative dealings with a student or using your position relative to a student for some personal advantage;
- discussing details of your own intimate and sensitive personal matters with a student, such as your sexual relationship, mental health or financial position;
- borrowing or accepting money or other gifts from a student or otherwise having a financial interest with a student, except for token gifts after all assessment is completed and in accordance with the Gifts, Benefits and Hospitality procedure;
- behaviour of a threatening or criminal nature, or which reasonably makes the student feel unsafe, including stalking, repeated attempts to impose unwanted communication or contact that is not the appropriate performance of your University duties, harassment, assault, sexual assault or bullying;
- engaging in any other conduct towards a student which is unreasonable and unwelcome, and could reasonably be expected to make the student feel offended, humiliated or intimidated.

4. Coercive or exploitive relationships

4.1 Coerced personal relationships are not tolerated and must not occur.

4.2 A coercive personal relationship is one, which misuses staff power over a student, or uses force or improper threat to persuade a student to do something.

Example
A professor arranged for private one-on-one sessions at their home with a student, indicating that if the student spent more time with the Professor, it would improve their grade.

4.3 Exploitive personal relationships are not tolerated and must not occur.

4.4 An exploitive personal relationship is one which makes use of a situation or academic relationship to gain a personal advantage or benefit.

Example
A PhD supervisor asks their student to care for their child whilst they are editing their thesis draft. An academic staff member asks a student to house sit for them whilst they are on holiday. A student is asked to perform secretarial duties when not employed to do so.

Example
A tutor makes repeated attempts to impose unwanted communication or contact, or touches a student with a learning disability inappropriately, or demands favours from a student of another cultural background as they expect the student will not report the incident.

4.5 Coercive and exploitive relationships are unprofessional, inappropriate and unethical, and are misconduct by the staff member. Disciplinary action will apply, up to and including termination of employment.

5. Inappropriate conduct by staff

5.1 Unprofessional or inappropriate conduct towards a student that is initiated by staff is not acceptable.

5.2 A student who seeks guidance about whether certain conduct is professional and appropriate or who needs assistance in responding to unprofessional or inappropriate conduct should speak to the Safer Community Unit, Health and Wellbeing Counselling or the student union/association, or Monash HR (by contacting ethical.conduct.queries@monash.edu).
6. Inappropriate conduct by students

6.1 Unprofessional or inappropriate conduct towards a staff member that is initiated by a student is not acceptable. This is likely to breach the Student Discipline Guidelines, Monash University (Council) Regulations – Part 7 and other University policies and procedures.

6.2 A staff member who needs assistance in responding to unprofessional or inappropriate conduct initiated by a student should speak to their performance supervisor, the Head of Unit, the Dean or Executive Director, or the Safer Community Unit or Monash HR (ethical.conduct.queries@monash.edu).

7. Declaring staff/student relationships

7.1 Staff must declare an actual or anticipated personal relationship with a student as soon as reasonably possible.

7.2 Students are expected to also declare an actual or anticipated personal relationship with a staff member as soon as reasonably possible.

7.3 If you are unsure whether you have a personal relationship with a student or staff member, you should seek advice from your supervisor, Head of Unit or the Manager, Ethical Conduct (ethical.conduct.queries@monash.edu). Students should seek advice from the Safer Community Unit (safercommunity@monash.edu).

How to make a declaration

7.4 Complete the Conflict of Interest Disclosure & Management form in accordance with the Conflict of Interest procedure:

- Step 1 – Complete the form
- Step 2 – The Head of Unit reviews the form
- Step 3 – The Dean/Executive Director reviews the form and then sends the form to their HR Business Partner
- Step 4 – The HR Business Partner sends the form to the Ethical Conduct Manager
- Step 5 – The Ethical Conduct Manager reviews the form, formulates a recommendation and sends the form to the Chief Human Resources Officer for final approval

7.5 The conflict of interest declaration allows us to review the nature of the relationship and where necessary, put measures in place to manage any conflict of interest. In doing so, we will consider:

- the age and social maturity of the student;
- any potential vulnerability of the student;
- the student's personal circumstances at the time;
- whether there is a supervision or teaching arrangement in place at the time;
- the circumstances of the student when the close personal relationship commenced or was initiated (for example, if the personal relationship was pre-existing the staff/student relationship);
- any special family, kinship and elder relationships;
- the nature of the two individuals’ contact in study, research or employment;
- the potential for the staff member to influence the academic progress and outcomes or career progression of the student; and
- the extent of the power imbalance between the two individuals.

7.6 The required staff member and student, where applicable, will usually be notified of the conflict of interest management measures put in place.

Change in relationship status

7.7 We expect you to notify us of any change of relationship status in a declared personal relationship. This allows us to make adjustments to the conflict of interest management plan, where appropriate.

8. Failure to declare a staff/student relationship

8.1 Non-disclosure of a personal relationship with a student may amount to misconduct or a serious breach by the staff member involved in the personal relationship. Disciplinary action will apply, up to and including termination of employment.

9. Reporting inappropriate and unacceptable behaviour

Reporting anonymously

9.1 You can choose to report anonymously, however if you do report anonymously we won't be able to provide you with any updates on our response to your report. By their nature, it's difficult to verify or investigate anonymous reports as it's usually impossible to get all the information that may be required.
Submit a report online

9.2 You may submit a confidential report online: Report an incident or concern

9.3 You may also seek support, advice, referrals or report unacceptable behaviour affecting you or another person at the University.

11.3 In addition, you can refer to the Mental Health procedure for guidance and information on the support available.

- a Monash staff member, SCU can explain the processes for making a formal report for Monash Workplace Relations
- a Monash student's behaviour, you can make a formal report of general misconduct. General misconduct is any form of unacceptable behaviour that breaches Monash rules and regulations. SCU will refer all formal reports of general misconduct to the Office of Student Conduct.

12. Breach of procedure
